BULLY MANAGEMENT- SMART™ FOR TEACHERS

This “SMART™,” program was designed for TEACHERS and other educational professionals in the personal awareness issues of handling young adults during these violent attacks in our schools. This training program was designed to enhance the professional growth and enhancing communication skills needed, and the personal development methods to break down the barriers facing these unique attacks, aggression, violence at school and in the home environment, establishing personal goals and working with your young adults who are misguided, troubled, and truly seek out a mentor or professional guide. Understanding that poverty, literacy, abandonment, drugs, violence, suicide, physical, mental and sexual abuse and alcohol are all usually all known factors your young adults and youth have to face on a daily basis, and most often responsible for the breaking down of communication or igniting violence is due to culture differences, religious beliefs, or not having a true understanding of the living situations your young adults are faced with which prohibiting their personal growth and hinder their learning process.

This program concentrates on providing you with a plan of action during these terrible critical and horrific attacks and how to manage information from students to which make this response successful. We will address the “Face the danger,” concept and principal.
